REMOVED.—Rumor has it that C. H. Hale, Superintendent of Indian Affairs for this Territory, has been removed on account of charges preferred against him of letting beef and other contracts to friends at exorbitantly high figures. A Mr. McMillen, of Wisconsin, is named as his successor.—Washington Statesman.

We don't know about that: Mr. Hale has an honorable reputation, wherever he is known, and we do not believe there is any just ground for such complaint against him. To avoid mistake, however, and save the Administration from any possible complaint, we wish to say that the Mr. McMillen spoken of, is not our old Mac., who goes to the Chicago Convention.

It will be seen by the following, in answer to a letter of inquiry by a New York Notary, that the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has materially modified the decision of Comptroller Taylor in his circular of the 15th of June last:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, OFFICE INTERNAL REVENUE,
WASHINGTON, January 26th, 1864.

Sir: In answer to your letter on the 23d instant, I have to say that to the general rule that a jurat to an affidavit is subject to a stamp duty of five cents there has been made the following exception: Certificates issued or affidavits made in a suit pending in any Court are exempt from stamp duty.

Very respectfully,
JOHN J. LEWIS,
Commissioner.

A SHAME TO THE WAR OFFICE.—A report from the Secretary of War shows that since December 1st, 1860, two hundred and seventy-seven officers left the service to engage in the rebellion. Of this number only twenty-six are registered as dismissed and nine as dropped. A simple resignation is marked against Lee, Longstreet, the Johnstons, Hardee, Bragg, Beauregard, and many others who have held the most conspicuous positions in the rebel army. Is it right that the names of such traitors should remain on the army records without a stigma of disgrace attached?

The old Pub. Func. is actually out for a vigorous prosecution of the war, which he refused to quell. That crazy loon, Colorado Jewett, has been visiting him to enlist him in favor of peace through international mediation. It must have been a funny scene, crazy Jewett talking peace and the hoary-headed old sinner talking war and endorsing Horace Greeley.

T. STARR KING'S "PERMANENT SUCCESSOR." The Christian Mirror, Portland, Maine, March 22d, says:

The Rev. Horatio Stebbins, of the First Parish Society, Portland, expects to leave for California in September, to become pastor of the church of the late Rev. Starr King. In the meantime he will preach, we understand, for Rev. Dr. Bellows, of New York, who has sailed for California to fill the pulpit of the late Mr. King for six months, at the expiration of which time Mr. Stebbins will assume the duties.

The estimation upon Mr. Jeff. Davis in North Carolina is shown by this observation in the late speech of Governor Vance: He said: "If every man in this county (Wilkes) who has used abusive language towards Jeff. Davis and the Confederate Government was to be put in prison, he would have to address his entire audience through iron bars."

NOTABLE DEATH.—The widow of General and Ex President William Henry Harrison, died at North Bend, Ohio, on the 25th of February last. She was the daughter of Jno. Cleaves Symes, and was married to young Harrison in 1795, when he was but a Captain in the U. S. Army. She was in her 90th year when she died.

"This is an Abolition war!" declared an Ohio Constitutional Democrat, in Congress, a short time since. "I grant it, replied Gen. Garfield of the same State, who had recently returned from the scene of war, "but the current of events has also made the army an Abolition army."

Parson Brownlow says that Noah was a radical, because in launched his ark and endeavored to keep up communication with heaven, after all the Conservatives had taken water!

NOTICE BY POSTING.—A written notice, says the Union, posted up at the Post Office by a wealthy firm of this city, attracted considerable attention yesterday. It states that a certain lawyer had paid the firm in greenbacks the sum of over $600, the most of which was received by him in gold. The lawyer adds a supplement to the notice stating that had he the power he would have settled with the firm in question in Confederate scrip.

From the Mines.

We are indebted to Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express for a copy of the Walla Walla Statesman of April 29th, in advance of the mails, from which we make the following extracts:

The line of stages running between this city and the Boise mines are making their regular trips and always "come to time." The stages go and come loden down, with passengers, making remarkably quick time, and although the roads may be in a bad condition for some, we feel assured that the stage company find no serious impediment to travel for "nothing stops them." Mr. Holliday will put on a line of fourhorse coaches from Salt Lake to Boise City on the 1st of July, for the purpose of carrying the overland mail. When the Walla Walla and Salt Lake mail line gets into operation persons will be able to go from this place to the Statesman coaches in about seventeen days, travelling time. The bids on the Salt Lake and Walla Walla mail were as follows: George F. Thomas, one bid at $370,000 and one at $250,000; W. H. Bigelow, at $32,125; (received too late for consideration;) C. W. Durkee, $400,000. Holliday's bid, which was accepted, was $150,000.

The military expedition to the plains left the Fort on Thursday. It consists of Companies B and E, of the Oregon Cavalry, and numbers ninety-seven men. They will proceed in the direction of the Owyhee country, and will be absent until the middle of October next.

The grasshoppers have made their appearance in great numbers in some portions of the Walla Walla valley, and fears are entertained by the farmers that they will destroy the crops. They have made their appearance nearly a month earlier this year than they did last.

Several parties on their way to the Kootenai mines have recently passed up on the north side of the Columbia. They cross the river at Priest Rapids.

The Boise correspondent of the Statesman thus speaks of the probable chances of people obtaining work in those mines:

From the careful estimate of the number of mining claims already located and workable from the water-shed dividing the Payette River from the tributaries of the Boise, forming the so-called Boise Basin, there cannot be profitable employment and considerable portion of the present season for over twenty-five thousand persons. This computation excludes the new counties of Alturas (South Boise region) and Owyhee where not exceeding five thousand more can be profitably employed, and includes the Boise river valley. It is true, new diggings may, and are quite likely to be struck, still there is no certainty of such discoveries being made. The rich and extensive quartz leads existing all through this section of country require time, and capital, and skill, to be developed, and will not afford employment to one-tenth part of the pennyless men coming in, who will and must of necessity depend upon immediate and steady employment to live here.

MORTALITY AMONG ARMY HORSES.—The report of Dr. Turner, late Chief Veterinary Surgeon of the Army, gives some interesting facts in relation to the mortality among the horses of the army. In the Eastern Department alone the mortality is three thousand per month, and an equally large number is condemned. These seventy-two thousand per year cost the government nine millions of dollars! Add the losses in other departments and the number killed in battle, and we have some insight into the vast expenditures involved in the present struggle for our national existence. The great waste of horse-life must surely be felt in every section of our country where the raising of horses is made a matter of business, and result in giving a strong impulse to the breeding of this kind of farm stock. Wherever farmers can raise colts, without actual loss, at present prices, we can safely advise them to raise as many as they can, because prices must yet be even higher than now, and the demand for horses will continue to be large for years to come.

HERO-WORSHIP.—A Washington correspondent gives the following account of Gen. Grant's "first appearance" at that city:

At 5 o'clock this afternoon, an officer, leading a child by the hand, quietly and modestly entered the dining room at Willard's and took a place at the table. A gentleman from New Orleans and his daughters recognized him, rose from their seats and shook hands with him cordially. In a flash as by electric communication, the news that Gen. Grant was in the room spread through the immense hotel, and the hundreds of guests, Senators, Representatives, Supreme Court Judges, women and children, lawyers, and all the customary household of Willard's, sprang from their seats and cheered in the most tremendous manner, and crowded around the blushing and confused object of this sudden ovation, and overwhelmed him with their admiring interest. When his meal was concluded and he left the room, it was but a fall into another scene of enthusiastic love that awaited him from a great crowd in the lower hall. His retreat from this superior force up the staircase and to his room was characterized by most unsolicitedly blushing. The reception of Gen. Grant at the President's levee in the evening was more furious than any scene that ever transpired in the East Room. He was literally lifted up for a while, and in obedience to a demand and to a necessity, so great was the desire to have a fair look at him, he was obliged to mount a sofa, under the auspices of Secretary Seward, who preceded him to that elevation. There has never been such a cheering, button-bursting jam in the White House as this soldier has occasioned. The cheering and waving of handkerchiefs was in the customary fury of Americans over popular favorites.

GENERAL GRANT AMONG THE LADIES.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune, writing under date of March 23d, says:

The ladies at Willard's convened in one of the large parlors last evening and despatched a messenger to Gen. Grant, with the request that he would give them an interview. He good-naturedly came down from his room and underwent a levee, in the course of which he frequently had to give his autograph. A smiling request from one lady to let the crowd go to the army to see the grand review was adroitly denied by the General with the reply that "When Mrs. Grant should come down for that purpose he would be pleased to see them also." The persistent dame recurred to the happiness she had enjoyed at the recent ball in the army. The General was compelled to tell her that had he been in command, no ball would have been permitted, and he added that when he heard in the West that the grand review that had been alluded to was to be got up for him, he had telegraphed an order to squelch it: and he said, in conclusion, there has been too much of this nonsense in the Army of the Potomac. It must be stopped.

UNITED STATES SANITARY COMMISSION,
NEW YORK, March 23 1864.

My Dear Sir:—Your favor of the 2d of February enclosing $500 in current funds, and $122 87 in Post Office draft, were received a fortnight ago, and I suppose acknowledged by our business man.

I write now, merely to tell you I sail for California on April 4th with my wife and two children, for a six months' visit; that I am hoping to see Oregon during my short run, that I may personally testify my gratitude for her exceeding nobleness. I hope to have the pleasure of taking you by the hand and returning you, face to face, some expression of my indebtedness to your personal services in the National cause, and that branch of it which the Sanitary Commission more especially professes.

With the best wishes, I am, meanwhile, yours most gratefully,
H. W. BELLOWS.

NEW YORK, April 30.—The new fifty per cent. extra duty on imported goods went into operation at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Merchants who had come forward in extraordinary numbers with their gold and invoices after the new tariff bill was introduced into Congress, were, from the hour above mentioned, quite indifferent as to the withdrawal of their goods. The receipts of the Custom House for duties during prese nt week have reached the immense figure of some $50,000,000, exclusively in coin.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Advices from the Army of the Potomac state that on the 28th a cavalry brigade under Gen. Devens, went out to Manson Court House on a reconnaissance, and found 500 rebels at that place, most of whom were captured. No force of the rebel army was discovered anywhere in that vicinity, although it was currently reported that they had crossed the Rapidan, and were moving towards our right. The expedition returned without loss.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 30.—A detachment of the 45th Kentucky Regiment attacked the rebels in Bethel county, killed four, and captured 16 men, 25 horses and 28 stand of arms. Our force then pursued and defeated Everett's command, killing two and capturing 35.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., April 24.—We learn from a gentleman who arrived from Decatur to-day that Roddy's rebels are still in that neighborhood, but they had made no demonstration. Gen. Dodge is on the alert. It is now thought improbable that the rebels will attack. A rebel force has also made its appearance south of the Tennessee, several miles from Huntsville. All comparatively quiet here about but we expect to move forward before long.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Specials from Richmond confirm the reports that the rebels are bringing every available soldier from the South into Virginia. Richmond swarms with troops, some of which are destined for the defence of the rebel Capitol, while others have gone to reinforce Lee.

Wade and Gooch who were sent by the Committee on the Conduct of the War, to visit Fort Pillow and inquire into the facts regarding the treatment of the colored troops after the surrender, returned today. The published accounts of the barbarities of Forrest's men are fully corroborated by depositions taken by a sub committee. Their report will be completed laid before Congress at once.

A special dispatch says Gen. Butler has stopped all exchange for present and prohibits flag of truce boats from going up or down James river.

CHICAGO, May 1.—In our march to Camden Station, Steele's loss is reported at 200. The rebel loss is unknown, but is said to be much greater. Gen. Steele's force is about 20,000 strong, and sufficient to defeat Roddy and Smith if the latter should attack him.)

Congressman Hall, of Missouri, writes that the credit of enrolled militia of re-enlisted veterans and colored troops, will reduce the quota of Missouri to 1,500. The negro enlistments since the 1st of April will more than cover this, thus freeing Missouri from the draft.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The Senate this morning adopted amendments to the currency bill, taxing banks one half of one per cent on their circulation, one quarter of one per cent on deposits and one quarter of one per cent on the capital of other than U. S. bonds.

The House considered the army appropriation bill to-day and after a lengthy debate agreed to the Senate amendment placing negro soldiers by an equality by with white troops from and after January 1st, 1865, regarding uniformity of camp equipage, rations, etc. It provides bounty to negroes shall not exceed $100.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Specials say that an official dispatch from Gen. Banks, dated the 21st, has been received. They state that the army is in excellent condition, and will shortly resume its march on Shreveport.

Butler telegraphs that the rebel forces have been withdrawn from North Carolina.

New Orleans dispatches state that Gen. Stone had been superseded by Gen. D. W. Smith. Gen. Stone under order from Washington is relieved to be assigned to the command of a regiment of regulars.

Magruder's army, reported to be 30,000 strong is on the Guadaloupe, Colorado and Brazos rivers, with the exception of 5,000 at Galveston.

A special to the Times from Washington, the 1st, says that a dispatch was received by the Government from Fortress Monroe stating that the rear of Beauregard's army had passed through Petersburg yesterday morning. His force is estimated at from 18,000 to 20,000. The same authority state that Lee's strength is upwards of 100,000.

Rumors are prevalent that Banks has been superseded by Gen. Augur.

Facts in possession of the Congressional Committee appointed to investigate the affairs of the New York Custom House, show that an enormous trade has been carried on between that city and rebeldom.

The famous trotting stallion, George M. Patchen, died yesterday from rupture.

The World's New Orleans letter reports the evacuation of Texas by our forces has begun. It also says that a report has reached New Orleans that Gen. Polk was at Camp Moore, nine miles from New Orleans, with from 15,000 to 20,000 men to move at once on Port Hudson or Baton Rouge.

European Intelligence.

HALIFAX, April 30.—An Antwerp dispatch of 13th says that the rebel steamer Florida, recently from Brest, put into Bermuda where she was well received by the English authorities. She sailed from Bermuda and arrived in a port in Portugal.

The London Shipping Gazette says that the officers of customs in Liverpool, still retain possession of the gunboat Alexandria, but stated that the owners had been notified that the Crown was ready to deliver her up on the usual application being made.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—The steamers Constitution from Panama, John L. Stephens, from Mexico, and Sierra Nevada, from Portland and Victoria, arrived on Saturday evening.

There is a place in Pennsylvania known as the Herringtone hills. It is an awful poor place, where six pigs have to work strategy to pull up a blade of grass. One takes hold of the blade, another grabs the tail of the first, and so on till the line of operation is formed. When the blade of grass breaks, the pigs all fall, out of sheer weakness and exhaustion.

The Copperhead editors of California are in the same poverty-stricken condition, both in pocket and reputation. They have to lean one against the other, and to continue puffing—one the other—to keep all in countenance.

THE WORLD'S SEA COMMERCE.—It is stated that the commerce of the world requires 3,000,000 able bodied men to be constantly traversing the sea. The amount of property annually moved on the water is from $1,500,000,000 to 2,000,000,000; and the amount lost by casualties on the sea averages $25,000,000 a year.

An Irish lad having been asked if the man who had just flogged him was his own father, replied, "Yis, sure, he's the parent av me, but he trates me as if I was hees son by another father and mother—bad luck to him!"

Weakness of the Kidneys.—If the affection of the kidneys, called "Bright disease," the general prostration and lumbar weakness generally resist all medical treatment, and the patient sinks slowly, but surely into the grave. If disorganization has not proceeded too far, the PERUVIAN SYRUP will arrest the granular disease, and restore the patient to comfortable and perfect health.

THE STEAMER NEW WORLD.—This steamer, which is at present the "attraction" in Portland, has a history, as well as everything else, and a brief sketch of her may not be inappropriate at this time. The New World was built in 1850, in New York, and as her model shows was designed to run on the North River. But, like hundreds of men on this coast at the present time, the story goes that she was in debt, and "skedaddled" for California—but as to the truth of this little bit of gossip we will not hold ourselves accountable—at all events: she made the trip successfully around Cape Horn, and landed safe in San Francisco Bay, where she has been the pride and pet of the California Steam Navigation Company for many years, doing more fast running and general business than any other steamer in their line. The New World is a large boat, for this country. Her entire length is 225 feet; breadth of beam, above deck, 50 feet. She is provided with 35 state rooms, and 111 berths. Her propelling power is a low pressure engine, of 46 inches in diameter of cylinder, 11 feet stroke. There are three decks: the ladies' saloon is on the main deck; the general saloon on the boiler deck, and the dining saloon is below the main deck. The hurricane deck has a pleasant promenade, forward. She is of 524½ tons burthen. The officers' rooms are all conveniently located, and the entire arrangement is in keeping with fine taste and good order. Her first trip to the Cascades will be made to-morrow.

ASSAY OF GOLD AND SILVER BEARING ROCK.—Messrs. Tracy & King, of this city, have quite recently made another assay of quartz rock, brought from the Owyhee, which shows an aggregate value of $1,113 47 to the ton, being in proportionate quantities, of gold $586 18, and of silver $527 29. These are genuine figures, made from accurate assays of the rock as it has been taken from the lode, and may be considered as by no means deceptive. The specimens were taken from the second drift of the Kirkpatrick lode, "seventy feet from grass." Who that can remember the results of the first assays made from the now famous "G. & Curry," will hesitate about what is to be the future of these new discoveries? The fact that these mines are situated in Idaho Territory does not diminish their value in the ... immense work which is now being ... in Washoe, will soon be re-enacted ... new field, and if we are permitted to judge from present appearances, on a scale ... less grand.

A WISE PRECAUTION.—We are permitted to make the following ... from a private letter from Boise, ... ville, April 17th, the writer is ... questions for the future comfort ... ing begins to look lively; mines ... work, and it will be a busy time ... water holds out. It is rather ... like anything here this ... I want you to have a good supply ... and other luxuries of the Willamette Valley, in readiness when I come down in the fall." Flour was selling at $10 per sack, of 50 lbs.; bacon at 50 cents per pound.

The hurricane deck has a pleasant promenade, forward. She is of 524½ tons burthen. The officers' rooms are all conveniently located, and the entire arrangement is in keeping with fine taste and good order. Her first trip to the Cascades will be made to-morrow.

ASSAY OF GOLD AND SILVER BEARING ROCK.—Messrs. Tracy & King, of this city, have quite recently made another assay of quartz rock, brought from the Owyhee, which shows an aggregate value of $1,113 47 to the ton, being in proportionate quantities, of gold $586 18, and of silver $527 29. These are rounding figures, made from accurate assays of the rock as it has been taken from the lode, and may be considered as by no means deceptive. The specimens were taken from the second drift of the Kirkpatrick lode, "seventy feet from grass." Who that can remember the results of the first assays made from the now famous "Gould & Curry," will hesitate about what is to be the future of these new discoveries? The fact that these mines are situated in Idaho or Oregon, does not diminish their value in the least, and the immense work which is now being carried on in Washoe, will have to be re-enacted in this new field, and if we are permitted to judge from present appearances, on a scale no less grand.

A WISE PRECAUTION.—We are permitted to make the following extract from a private letter from Boise, dated Placerville, April 5th, the writer is wise in his suggestions for the future comfort: "Everything begins to look lively; miners are all at work, and it will be a busy time while the water holds out. I think mixed whether I make anything here this summer or not, so I want you to have a good supply of fruit, and other luxuries of the Willamette valley, in readiness when I come down in the fall." Flour was selling at $10 per sack, of 50 lbs.; bacon at 30 cents per pound.

HALF DIMES.—Heretofore 5-cent pieces have been considered too small change to be worth much attention, notwithstanding the "bit" system has been eternally a great nuisance. In San Francisco the street railways have worked a revolution in "change-making," and now a person is not considered picayunish, in asking after a half dime. This coin is even now much sought in Portland, for paying fares, and the same custom that prevails in San Francisco may soon be established here.

WOULD NOT LEAVE.—The prize seal recently explored at the Cascades, and spoken of in this paper, seems to like its new home rather well. It was taken to the ferry landing yesterday, and thrown into the stream several times, invariably returning to its captor on shore, barking and snaking like a dog. How long it will live in its present condition remains to be seen, but it evidently has no intention to leave the comfortable habitations of man, for the chilly waves of the sea.

RECORDER'S COURT.—In the matter of L. N. and Sarah J. Smith, the defendants failed to appear, and upon motion of the City Attorney their bail was declared forfeited to the city. Jackson also failed to appear, and $20 deposited as security in his case, was declared forfeited. Wm. Herrigon was fined $5 and costs, paid. Francis Lacourt, (colored,) fined $10 and costs, paid, and was in addition committed for one day for contempt of court.

AN EXCELLENT IDEA.—We take very great pleasure in giving to Mr. A. Veeder, of the Temperance House on Front street, credit for adorning his establishment with a beautiful array of flowers. They attract universal attention, and prove that the enterprising proprietor of the hotel thinks as well of the good and pleasant appearance of the street, as he does of his own premises.

THE PANORAMA.—Mr. Bachelder has fitted up a superb four-horse wagon, and purchased a fine team of horses, intending to take a trip through the country with his elegant panorama: "Pearson's Historic Mirror of the War." We bespeak for him crowded houses wherever he goes.

COMMENCEMENT DAY.—To-morrow is the commencement of a new term at the Pacific University, Forest Grove. Gen. Alvord will deliver an address, and G. H. Durham an oration, before the Sciotics of the University. A programme of exercises for an exhibition has been issued.

THE STEAMSHIP PACIFIC.—About 450 tons of freight for Portland arrived on the steamship Pacific, most of which was discharged yesterday, and the steamer will be able to leave at SIX o'clock this evening, for Victoria and San Francisco.

RELEASED.—The woman, in the case of cruelty to a child, which was tried before Justice Gray on Friday last, has given bail for her appearance at the Circuit Court, and been released.

TREASURE.—The bullion received by Wells, Fargo & Co. last evening, amounted to 30,000 dollars. The connection was through to Lewiston.

THE steamer Wilson G. Hunt arrived from the Cascades last evening with about thirty passengers. On the up trip she carried 100 passengers and 50 tons of freight.

Public Parks.

PORTLAND, May 2, 1864.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

Observing a modest query on the "Public Parks," made inquiry and learned from those most concerned in making them, that the reason for doing so has the best of precedents, and is in accordance with the views of the Court of Common Pleas, from which the power is derived, and from many supreme decisions of the Court of last resort upon the subject in this State, the duties of Commissioners of Parks and officers appointed by them are plainly defined in the Partition Act.

It was ill advised, if not ultra, to suppose that a mere Board Fence would make these parks more secure than the order of the Court, which not only embraces power to protect in contemplation of Partition, but also parks and streets adjacent thereto.

I have written in this manner that no incorrect impression may be conveyed, and that officers may be made aware of the consequences of any interference with these parks: and further, let me say that those who have interfered will save themselves trouble by withdrawing at once such pretensions.

W. W. CHAPMAN,
Attorney for Corbett and others.

PORTLAND, April 28, 1864.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

In this morning's issue of your paper, I notice an article in relation to Capt. Blake, and the crew of the Ocean Bird, and the money contributed for their relief by the passengers of the steamer Panama, at the time of their rescue. From the letter of your Astoria correspondent, it is evident to me, there is some misunderstanding in regard to the amount of money raised upon that occasion.

I was one of the passengers on the Panama, and assisted in raising the contributions, the amount of which was $1,150.

There was a written request made by the principal officers, to Capt. Blake, and acceded to by him in presence of Purser Anderson and Engineer Fay, of the steamer Panama, and Mr. Taylor, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express messenger, to the effect that the funds should be placed in his (Capt. Blake's) hands to be distributed in the following manner: Capt. Blake was to receive $50 00; the first mate 25 00; the second mate $21 50; six seamen, each $18 00; making a total of $151 50.

If Capt. Blake has made disposition of the funds in accordance with the above statement, it is all right; if not, it is all wrong.

I am, very respectfully, yours,
DAN'L MALARKEY.

MODERN IMPROVEMENTS.—If we purchase a house to live in, we are sure to want all the "modern improvements,"—and in a descending scale, in all our purchases we want the same. This fact applies with peculiar force to that important accessory to a household for the present day—a sewing machine. When our fair readers purchase one of these, they want one, of course, with the "modern improvements"—they want to embroider as well as sew with the machine, for they never would be satisfied to make their dresses on the machine, and then slowly put on the embroidery by hand; nor need they, for with Grover & Baker's Celebrated Machine they can do both, and with an ease and rapidity astonishing to behold.—New York Chronicle.

The Agency of the above Machine in this city, is corner Front and Washington Sts., J. W. J. Pierson.

KEEP IT BEFORE THE PEOPLE.—That Shelby has received by this steamer the finest assorted stock of Boots and Shoes that has ever before been offered in this market. An ocular demonstration would convince you of the fact. See to it, and consult your interest.

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.—The operation of this palatable remedy upon the stomach, liver and excretory organs is singularly soothing and conservative. It regulates, recruits and purifies them. Dyspepsia in all its forms yields to its control and invigorating properties, and it is recommended to mothers, enfeebled by the cares and duties of maternity, as the safest and best tonic they can probably use. In all the crisis of female life it will be found eminently useful, and elderly persons will derive much more benefit from it than from ordinary stimulants.—Sold by all Druggists and Dealers everywhere. ap26dlm

THE PROOFS OF ITS EFFICACY are so numerous, so well attested, and of such peculiar character, that suffering cannot reasonably hesitate to receive the proffered relief.

It is well known that the medicinal effect of Protoxide of Iron is lost by even a very brief exposure to air, and that to maintain a solution of Protoxide of Iron, without further oxidation, has been deemed impossible.

In the Peruvian Syrup, this desirable point is attained by combination in a way before unknown; and this solution may be applied to all the proto carbonates, citrates and tartrates of the Materia Medica.

IODINE WATER.

IODINE WATER IS THE MOST IMPORTANT DISCOVERY of modern chemistry, and it is impossible to over-estimate its influence as a remedial agent. Iodine has been considered the most useful article in Materia Medica, and many of the most scientific and practical chemists and physicians have investigated its effects upon the human system. It is to act upon the

HEART,
LIVER, KIDNEYS,
DIGESTIVE ORGANS AND GLANDULAR SYSTEM, and to have great control over
SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS.

Notwithstanding the zeal and ability which have been devoted to its investigation, it remained almost useless, until Dr Kenny's readers, a physician and chemist of New York, after years of patient labor and experiment, discovered a chemical process which enabled him to dissolve without stain or taint. This, considered impossible by the scientific world, is attested by certificates of analysis from Dr. J. R. Chilton of this city, and Prof. Booth U. S. Mint, Philadelphia. The importance of this discovery was so highly appreciated by the Faculty that it was published in the Medical Journals, and its use recommended by practitioners (see "American Medical Monthly," July 6, 1859, page 76.)

PURE IODINE IN PURE WATER,

This valuable medicine is now available to the public for the cure of scrofula in all its manifold forms, Consumption, Cancer, Heart, Liver, and Kidney Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Affections, Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, etc.

AS A TONIC

Its operation is evinced by strengthening the digestive organs and increased nutrition of the body is the result of the employment of Iodine. The patient recovers flesh, strength and color; hitherto pale, relaxed and feeble, he becomes full strong and florid.

CELEBRATED
STOMACH BITTERS.

THE OPERATION OF THIS PALATABLE REMEDY upon the stomach, liver and excretory organs is singularly soothing and conservative. It regulates, recruits and purifies them. Dyspepsia in all its forms yields to its control and invigorating properties.

Invigorate the System.

Vigorous digestion and pure bile produce nutritious blood, and nutritious blood a healthy frame. Does the victim of a dyspeptic stomach and a disordered liver desire to know how the digestion may be improved, the bile and other fluids of the body purified?

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters

Will accomplish this desirable revolution in the system, regulating the secretions and excretions, giving tone to the animal forces which dissolve the food, strengthen every relaxed nerve, muscle and fibre, and bring the whole machinery of vitality into vigorous and healthful play.

Strengthen the System.

The best means of imparting vigor to the broken-down frame and shattered constitution, which has yet been invented or discovered, is proffered to the feeble of both sexes and all ages in

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

Debility, from whatever cause arising, may be cured; strength, in whatever manner it may have been wasted, may be restored by the use of this powerful and healthy invigorant. For indigestion and all its painful effects, bodily and mental, they are a positive specific.

A word to the Aged.

In the decline of life the loss of vital force consequent upon physical decay can only be safely supplied by some vivifying preparation which recruits the strength and spirits, without entailing the exhaustion which is always the final result of ordinary stimulants. We tender to the aged

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters,

As an indigorant and restorative, immediate in its beneficial action and permanent in its effects. It tones the stomach, improves the appetite, and sets like a charm upon the spirits.

For Females.

Thousands of ladies resort to it as a remedy for hysteria, flattering of the heart, nervous headache, vertigo, general debility, and all peculiar disturbances and derangements to which as a sex, they are subject. It cheers and enlightens the depressed mental powers, as well as strengthens the body, and its use is never followed by any reaction.

The Hundred Guinea Wager.

In some place about the centre of Ireland, no matter where, there lived a Catholic bishop whose piety was proverbial. He was a bright star in the constellation of his church, shedding the lustre of his shining example like a halo of glory over a pious but honest people. A people long trampled down under the iron heel of a foreign despot; a people deprived of civil and religious liberty, the inalienable right of man; a people rendered indigent by odious enactments, confiscations, and long years of legal plundering. In a word, a people crushed almost out of existence itself beneath the intolerable pressure of penal codes.

At the time my story commences, the man of God was about sixty years of age, greatly beloved in his diocese, and an ornament to the church of which he was a bright pillar.

Miss Dora Newcomb, the bishop's niece, was his housekeeper. She had lived with his Grace since she was a small girl, and at the time of which I write was advancing up to the maturity age of thirty, as sweet a brunette as ever the green Erin could boast of—and that, dear reader, is surely a big word.

Miss Dora was not, of course, treated as a common servant, but had a maid of all work to do the rough business, so that the niece was left most of her time to play the lady, and she was so high in his lordship's estimation that just as she had a mind to.

Every person liked Miss Dora, for she was a kind and amiable, kind-hearted and charitable creature. A laughing, coaxing, black eyed, plump faced, little dumpling of a girl, like her own angel mother, the bishop would say, when she teased him for any favor, which he was never known to deny her.

Not far from the bishop's cottage lived an old, rough, money-loving country gentleman, named Smash. He was not a gentleman, however, in the correct sense of the term, but a shabby, big bellied, uncouth junk of an old fellow; one who had hoarded up much gold and silver by his peculiar tact for driving shrewd bargains, lending money on usury, and other extortions practiced by all bad men. And yet, Mr. Smash, strange to say, sustained a tolerably fair fame, in his own neighborhood, and was sometimes spoken of as a good sort of man.

The old farmer had five sons, all of whom except the eldest, he set up in the world after his own fashion; that is, in close money making pursuits. They were not indeed burdened with any great culture of mind; nothing further than mere ability to read and write, which at that time, in Ireland, might be called a gentleman's education.

But, on the eldest son, Tom, the old man spared no expense in his education, having the ambition to push him into holy orders, which he did when the lad was twenty-four years of age. And though Father Tom was not the Fenelon of his age, nor even reputed either for his brilliant attainments or his piety, yet he stood pretty high in the bishop's estimation, and filled a curacy in his father's parish with considerable credit. He was now in the thirty-second year of his age, and the seventh of his priesthood.

The parish priest under whom Father Tom officiated was a very worthy old man, and for ten or fifteen years a vicar general in the diocese. Being a great favorite of the bishop's, his life was one of the best in the see. But he was now seventy-five years of age, for a long time in bad health, and at present, it was believed, on his death bed. So, to use a vulgar expression, his death was to be "bread and butter" for some other priest.

The old farmer had both his eyes open, and now, when the loaves and fishes were at hand, he devised a shrewd plan to secure the living for his son Tom.

One day the bishop being at a conference, about ten miles from home, old Farmer Smash repaired to the bishop's cottage, rapped at the door, and was admitted by Miss Dora.

"Is his lordship at home, Miss Dora?" demanded the boor.

"No, Mr. Smash," replied the brunette, "he's at the conference, and won't be at home till about six."

"O, dear me! how disappointed I am!" said the old fox, dumping himself into a chair, and laying his coarse felt hat on the carpet beside him.

"What's the matter, Mr. Smash?" asked the girl, dropping herself into a chair by his side.

"Why then, not much, Miss Dora," he replied, drawing a long breath, and passing his rough hand over his eyes, in apparent abstraction. The young girl was silent till the farmer spoke.

"You know, Miss Dora, that the parish of Dark Valley is soon likely to be vacant. The Vicar General, poor dear man, they say is not to pass the night."

"I know it, and am very sorry," answered the girl, with a tear starting in her eye, "he was a good man, and Uncle loved him as his own soul."

"So did we all," replied the hypocrite, "but God's will must be done. I hope, Miss, the parish will have no cause to regret his loss."

The girl wiped her eyes and remained silent.

"Has his lordship, think you, Miss Dora, any successor in view?" asked the old man, helping himself to a pinch of snuff, and presenting the box to the young girl.

"Not that I know of, Mr. Smash," was the reply, "and I think if he had I should have heard of it, for Uncle keeps nothing from me, except gold guineas and bad books."

"Miss Dora, then you never heard his lordship speaking of Father Tom, did you?"

"Oh yes, Mr. Smash, often—I am sure he thinks Father Tom a good priest. I don't know, indeed, as to his sermons, perhaps uncle don't consider him a first rate hand at them."

"He don't excel in oratory, I know," said the father. "But what words cannot do, (as the old man says in the fable,) Father Tom makes the horsewhip accomplish, by way of enforcing precepts, and accordingly, Miss Newcomb, his flock is the most obedient of any parish in the diocese. And that, you know, is the great master qualification of a good Irish priest."

"I don't like this horsewhip theology," said the girl, "neither does uncle. I am sure it is no way to enforce the precepts of our holy religion. A priest, like a bishop, should be no striker. I learned so much of the Bible, Mr. Smash."

"Well, then, lady, you know more of it than I do," remarked the old man, "the Bible is not a book for the laity, and I heard Father Tom say it, but enough of that now."

"Miss Dora," he spoke, laying his hands upon his knees, and looking straight into the girl's face, "I had a promise of the parish of Dark Valley for Father Tom near two years ago, from the bishop. Did you ever hear him say so?"

"Never," said the niece in astonishment. "A promise of the parish for Father Tom!" repeating the words of the old man with strange emphasis. "The Lord bless us!—a promise of the parish of Dark Valley for Father Tom! No, no, sir, I never did."

"I had, then, girl," he said; but think no a minute, he remarked, "It's not improbable he may forget it; they say he has not of late the best memory."

"Uncle forget what he promised! No, sir, never!" and the girl's eye flashed with indignation on the old churl.

"Excuse me, Miss Dora, I did n't mean to offend you, nor sin against his lordship; but he's mighty forgetful, and he owns it himself, for he often told me so." And jumping to his feet, as if he was himself the offended party, he pulled out a long purse of gold, and said:

"Come, I'll wager one hundred guineas that he forgets that promise, made to me but two short years ago!"

"I have not a hundred guineas, or I should not be afraid to make the wager," spoke the girl, her ears tinkling with the jingle of the yellow shiners.

"Well, Miss, to accommodate you, I'll stake my hundred guineas against your hundred thirteens," said old Smash, turning out two yellow pile on the marble chimney piece, and slapping his brawny fist in swaggering confidence of winning, on the cold marble.

"A hundred thirteens," said the girl, with eyes dilated in her head, and lips parted between ecstacy and bewilderment.

"Yes, one hundred guineas against five pound five!" he repeated. "Will you make the bet?"

"Wait till I see if I have got the money," she said, making a movement to go upstairs.

The farmer resumed his seat, and in less than five minutes Miss Dora returned with the money.

"Who'll hold the bets," she asked, walking on tiptoe as she entered the parlor.

"Your own fair self," was the reply, and the dodger commenced counting the guineas into the girl's hand.

"Here's the five pounds," she said, with a slight tremor, laying the old, smooth white thirteen-penny pieces on the mantle piece beside the gold.

"Put them up along with the gold," he said, "till I see you again. Good day, Miss Newcomb. To-morrow I may wait on his Grace, and that visit will decide the wager."

At 6 o'clock that evening the Bishop returned, and after ten the niece sat to read and sing to her uncle, as she was long in the habit of doing.

"Dora, my pet," spoke the man of God, "our old friend, and my dearly beloved brother in Christ, father Ambrose, is no more—rest his soul in glory."

"O, dear me, when did he die, uncle?" asked the niece, putting the corner of her apron to her eye, and sighing.

"At 3 o'clock in the afternoon, Dora. May God be good to him; there never was a pastor more faithful in the discharge of his duty. He was an ornament to the church. Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

"Who succeeds him, uncle?" she asked with faltering voice.

"'Twill take some consideration before I can decide on that, my child," replied the bishop, leaning back in his chair, and shading his eyes with his left hand.

"Did n't you promise the parish to Father Tom Smash?" she asked, turning her plump, fat face to that of the bishop's.

"To Father Tom Smash, child?" exclaimed the prelate in astonishment; "what in the name of the Virgin put that in your silly head?"

She made no reply, but hung down her head and remained silent.

"What's the matter, Dora?" he asked, stooping down and lifting her head on his knee.

"Alast uncle, my hundred guineas, and the five pounds you gave me for the new silk cloak," she answered, sobbing convulsively, and then bursting into tears.

"Pater Noster!" said the bishop, commencing the Lord's prayer, and making the sign of the cross on the girl's forehead. "She's beside herself!" he cried, speaking to himself, as he rose to ring the bell for assistance.

"No, uncle, I'm not mad," she spoke, recovering her composure, then repeating the old sorrow. "My hundred guineas, and the five pounds you gave me for the new cloak," she burst into tears again and rose to leave the room.

The good man was not a little perplexed, but after a little coaxing he got her to sit down, and relate the story of her trouble.

"You promised the parish of Dark Valley two years ago to Father Tom Smash, as soon as the vicar general should die: His father was here to-day to put you in mind of your promise, and expressed his fears that you'd forgot it. I got indignant, and in the dispute between us, he bet one hundred guineas to my five pounds that you'd back out of your word, on the plea that you forgot it. So there, now, my hundred guineas are gone, and the five pounds you gave me for the new silk cloak:" and there was a fresh fit of crying.

"Patience, girl—let me reflect a little—for I believe indeed my recollection is getting a little frail of late years. Two years ago, you say?"

"Yes, sir; that's what he told me."

"Well, let me see. The parish of Dark Valley—to Father Tom Smash. Bless me, girl, how forgetful I am become! I do remember it now, quite distinctly. Yes, yes, to his father, old Smash. What a cunning fox that is. His son is a good priest, however, and quite worthy of the living. Go now to your room, child; that's all settled. Good night, Dora. I'll see Father Smash after the funeral." And the man of God rose to pace the floor.

The old priest was interred in due time, and next Easter Sunday saw the Rev. Father Tom Smash making his half yearly collection on the altar of Dark Valley Chapel, while Miss Dora Newcomb appeared in her new silk cloak and velvet bonnet, the first ever worn in that parish since the creation of time.

House-Rents and Mr. Astor.—At the present time, the balance of power in this respect, probably lies in the hands of Mr. Astor. This gentleman, at present, is worth according to recent valuations, probably considerable more than sixty millions of dollars. It was to be hoped that he would signalize himself, at the present opportunity, as a man whom vast successes had not hardened, but who rejoiced at an opportunity to show himself grateful to the community where his wealth was made and is invested. Yet Mr. Astor has advanced his rents thirty per cent.

Writers for the press should always take special care to write in a legible hand. Printers sometimes make ludicrous mistakes in consequence of being unable to decipher an author's hieroglyphics. A very popular authoress, speaking of her heroine as "enjoying more indulgences than usually fall to the lot of her sex," wrote the sentence so badly that it appeared as "usually fall to the lot of horses," the last two words having been written as if one.

A pioneer in New Hampshire having been sentenced to the States Prison, it being the fourth time within the last twenty years, very coolly commenced singing "Home, Sweet Home!"—Ex.

Precisely the air that Jeff Davis will sing when he reaches hell, says the Plute.
